Do You Tweet ?

Twitter

What is the tweeting all about? Twitter is the latest form of social networking on the Internet. You're thinking...why bother with ANOTHER site....well, Twitter works much differently than most of the others. Instead of going to a bunch of different websites and "pulling" information from specific people/businesses, you set up a Twitter account to "push" all the information to you in updates of 140 characters or less. It's simple, so go ahead and get started...

Twitter Instructions

1. Go to www.twitter.com. Set up an account for yourself; it's free and all you need is a username and password. (FYI-once you have an account, if you click on your settings, you can control whether you want to be "public" with your information – your level of interaction is in your control)
2. Once you have an account, Twitter will suggest 3 things for you to do:
 - a. Tell us what you're doing in the box above. (this is for the people that "follow" you)
 - b. Find some friends and follow what they're doing. (Here's where CIFSC comes in – From your Home page, in the top right corner, click on Find People – in the search box, type in CIFSC {not case sensitive} and then click on Follow. When CIFSC has updates/changes/important notices/etc., we will put out a "tweet" for anyone who is "following" us. If you're thinking that you can get the same information from the website; you're correct. However, this allows you to receive other people's updates, along with ours, all on one website. For example, I also "follow" Wall Street Journal, WAOW, Ellen DeGeneres, and Dove Chocolate, to name a few – you find the people you want to follow.)
 - c. Turn on your mobile phone to update your friends on the go. (I don't use this application, but it's out there for those who may be interested)

Please, go ahead and try it – tell me what you think and what information you would like to see included in the tweets!

Sue Burant –

Pick Hole Reminder

A not so friendly reminder: Skaters not in lessons are REQUIRED to fill pick holes at the end of EVERY package. Leaving the ice early does not excuse you from filling holes. If necessary, we will have rink monitors start taking down names of skaters leaving early and not filling holes and they can come in on their own time and fill holes after hockey games if necessary.

Ice Etiquette

The primary right of way belongs to skaters during lessons with coaches. A secondary right of way goes to those having their music played. Other skaters must yield to these skaters. The ice is very congested especially on Sunday evenings. It's important to watch out for each other. Skaters continually in the wrong may be asked by coaches to move. If complaints persist, parents of offending skaters will be contacted.

Rink Monitors

The next time that you are rink monitor, please check the Emergency Contact section of the Rink Monitor binder to make sure that your skater's contact information is up to date. If there is a change to the information, please correct it on the Emergency Contact sheet and send the information via email to Sue Kulich.

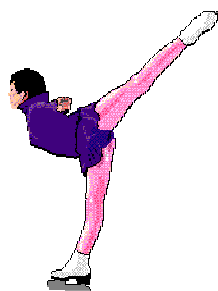

Each year we have parents ask why they have to be rink monitors when their skater isn't competing and not having music played. We try to stress that you are not only there to play music but also for safety reasons. The Willet first-aid kit has been upgraded to help handle more serious injuries.

You will be charged $20 for each no-show (both names listed must provide an adult for rink monitor duties; if one adult is needed for an emergency, the other adult can keep cds playing). If the date you are scheduled doesn't work out for you, you may switch with another parent. Also, let Sue know if you fill in for someone who was a no-show, so you can receive credit for doing so (you will also receive the credit if no one shows up and you are the only rink monitor).
